Project Profile # 1095012

Pre-poured concrete floors and structural steel construction are used in the design to give the owner the strength, durability and performance they require for years to come.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

When this First Nation Community needed to create a police services building quickly, NRB's off-site permanent construction technology, expedited schedule and turnkey services provided the solution for this remote location accessible only by ice roads. The main level of the facility houses detention areas and cells, interview room, offices, washroom & locker room, lunchroom and community room. The second floor is used as residences for police officers.
