The building was designed, built, shipped and installed during the winter months, quickly and efficiently so the owner could better manage their growing staff and business needs.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

To accommodate a rapidly growing business, the company needed additional engineering and executive office space, as well as a large cafeteria for staff. The challenge was to get the facility up and running in a very short timeframe, and without compromise to the owner's important corporate image, quality or desired building features and finishes. NRB completed the project, ready for occupancy in less than 3 months.
