Project Profile # 2085003

Pre-poured concrete floors and structural steel construction are used in the design to give the owner the strength, durability and performance they require for years to come.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

When the County needed to expand their Detention Center quickly, NRB's permanent modular construction with its expedited schedule provided the solution. The facility houses both a medium security, 24 man work release dormitory as well as a 10 cell maximum security women's jail. NRB and the owner worked together to design a layout that permitted a single view point for the guards for both areas, while maintaining complete seclusion between them for the prisoners.
